HAVE COMFORT & EASE, WILL TRAVEL

Traveling can be burdensome, uncomfortable and unhygienic; these three products promise to relieve some of the pain.

By Morgan Halaska

1 CONFADENT ORAL TECHNOLOGY

CONFADENT Oral Technology, the only chewing gum made with FDA-approved ingredients that help whiten teeth and freshen breath while reducing the bacteria that causes plaque and gingivitis, is a refreshing alternative to brushing teeth in bacteria-ridden public bathrooms. It is, however, just for maintaining oral health between brushings when you're on the go. Monthly subscription available for $21.95/month; available on Amazon; confadent.com

2 TRAVELMATE

Having another set of hands would be useful in a lot of cases—but especially when it comes to traveling. We don't have a way to give you more hands, but Travelmate—a robotic suitcase that follows you through the toughest of crowds—frees up the ones you do have. Fully compliant with TSA regulations, your new travel pal recognizes gesture and voice commands, and you can even name it. Starting at $399; igg.me/at/travelmate/x; travelmaterobotics.com

3 TRTL PILLOW

When sleeping in an upright position is the only option—be it on a plane or in a car—the Trtl Pillow makes catching Zs better, or even possible. Hidden inside the pillow's hypo-allergenic fleece material is an internal support system, which ergonomically cradles the head and neck in a comfortable position, preventing sore or stiff necks. Lightweight and easy to carry, the Trtl Pillow is half the size of a traditional U-shaped pillow and scientifically proven to provide better support. While one size fits all with the option of four colors, the pillow can be customized to fit anywhere across the front of the neck (either side) or under the chin. $29.99; available on Amazon; trtltravel.com
