3) CONCLUSION:

Now you want to know what we recommend to you to act and start with them or not, but if we tell you what you should do, we harm you and confuse your mind because everyone has needs and budgets differently from others. But we put reviews from experts and real customers to you to see the pros and cons and then make up your mind.

But we can analyze the whole situation. If you use mint mobile services for yourself, it will be good mostly; if you start with 3- a monthly plan to figure out, Is it suitable yourself about the support team, coverage, offers, and internet speed quality or not?

We should mention that it does not give you a specific family plan. But if you want the best offer, you should buy the Unlimited plan. So yes, they are honest about their logo-buy, save more- However, it is a little annoying that your phone must be GSM and VoLTE friendly.

Besides, they do not have stores, so if the elderly subscribe to them, they do not know how to deal with all these steps or if they faced a problem, they cannot solve it themselves or contact with online support team so what will happen at this situation.

On the other hand, they have a solid app experience you can use easily, and they send you an email informing you of your current data usage per month in case you want to check all usage details.
