

Mills Quarterly

Spring 2015

Studying at Mills gave me the academic and emotional grit to take on challenges and to work toward my goals. "Strength" is what being a Mills alumna means to me. I give to the annual fund to help women find new strengths within themselves through Mills' empowering and challenging environment.

behind
every gift
there is a story

Each gift to the College has a story—about a life-path discovered at Mills and followed into the world, about lifelong friendships and inspiring mentors, about a voice found or strengthened. These are the stories you make possible for future generations when you give to Mills. Each gift really does count: college assessors, including U.S. News & World Report, consider graduates' giving an important measure of a learning community's excellence. Your gifts to Mills are a vote of confidence in the College's future.
