EVER REVEAL PEEL PADS- 4/30/19

Let me preface this article by saying that after seeing before-and-after photos of other women, many of which were taken after less than one month of use, I knew I had to get my hands on these babies!

I'm a skincare fanatic and constantly trying new things for several skin concerns. My main concern is anti-aging, but I have very dry skin and I'm prone to hormonal breakouts. I wanted something that would deliver the kind of results I can only get when I visit my esthetician. I know, that's a big ask.

After doing some research about the Ever skincare line, I loved that the company has a lot of integrity regarding what they put into their products. Plus, REVEAL Biomimetic Peel Pads by Ever won Allure Magazine's "Best of Beauty" award for two years in a row! Obviously, I had to try this product.

My first impression upon receiving my order was that the packaging was beautifully simple and airtight. I really appreciated the added lid for extra moisture protection. The scent is pleasant too; it smells like the lemon cucumber water you'd get at a spa. It's light, fresh, and subtle and doesn't linger too long.

As I have pretty sensitive/reactive skin, I didn't use any other products when I tried the pads for the first time to ensure I wouldn't have a bad reaction. I expected that these might tingle and burn but there was no discomfort at all. After about 20 minutes, my skin felt smoother and wasn't dried out, and my skin tone appeared more even.

These powerful daily peel pads are made to smooth, firm, and make the surface of your skin more radiant and younger looking without irritation. The ingredients deliver results with no parabens, sulfates, phthalates, propylene glycol, or synthetic fragrances and colors. Natural lactic acids gently exfoliate to remove dead cells so anti-aging ingredients can penetrate better, while botanical ingredients, like azelaic acid and magnolia bark, help fade dark spots and shut down inflammation.

I waited 3 days before using this product again and had no negative reaction ever. After the second use, I noticed a great improvement to some hyperpigmentation I had after a recent breakout. The willow bark really seems to help deep clean my pores and reduce the redness of occasional breakouts.

These pads are amazing and now a staple in my skin care routine! I don't know how I went so long without this product in my life. I love that they're gentle enough to use every day but the ingredients are so effective, I only need to use them about three times a week. I use them during my night time routine and I always wake up with a glowing, soft, baby face!

I'm super happy with the product and I'm excited to see more improvements!
