The New Neutral

From dove to gunmetal, grey is the trend that's here to stay.

There is no doubt that cream and magnolia have been consigned to the past, and grey is the shade to look to if you are creating a stylish neutral space. To bring a 2018 spin to your space, layer a number of shades of grey for a contemporary, multidimensional feel. Try going for darker shades on the walls and adding softer hues through furnishings, lighting and accessories for a room scheme that will never date.

A Touch of Blush

Warm your interior with the prettiest pastel...

Pale shades of pink have been riding high in the world of interior trends for several seasons and they are going nowhere. Blush pink is adding warmth and modernity to interior schemes, particularly when introduced through soft, tactile textiles and statement furnishings.

Pink can be a super versatile addition; try combining chalky pinks with greys to warm up Scandinavian style spaces or combine your pops of pink with brass hardware for a decadent, glamorous feel that exudes 1920s chic.

Rustic Retreat

This stripped back look is perfect for those who prefer a muted colour palette and let the materials do the talking.

A muted, earthy palette, exposed brickwork and furnishings in weathered finishes are at the heart of the Rustic Retreat trend, creating a scheme that exudes a laid-back charm.

While unfinished walls and floorboards may not be achievable in your own home, it is possible to introduce this look by layering accent accessories and furnishings that embody the handmade, raw quality of this scheme. Wicker baskets, weathered timber, richly woven rugs and tactile ceramics all build this rustic feel and will instantly update your space without costing the earth.

Luxe Eclectic

Layer upon layer of luxurious styling...

Drawing on this season's maximalism trend, the Luxe Eclectic look is creating a modern take on luxurious living by combining a palette of rich pigments with powerful prints and the most decadent materials around including brass, velvet and marble.

This look may not be for the faint hearted as it aims to break all the style rules and create spaces that are brimming with an eclectic array of interior styles. Bold florals and detailed oriental prints, vibrant velvet upholstery, fringing and furnishings with opulent brass trimmings are all key to this playful look. To ensure the scheme feels eclectic yet cohesive, pick a couple of colours such as rich indigo or emerald green that you can run throughout your room's design.

New Season Scandic

A 2018 spin on classic Scandinavian inspiration...

Scandinavian inspired interiors never go out of style but for 2018, the look has been given a cosy make-over. Warming up the classic monochrome colour palette and adding rich, tactile textures means this season Scandic style is more desirable than ever.

On-trend pops of blush pink as well as richer tones such as moss green and teal are being introduced into the look along with metallic accents through lighting and fittings. Pale blonde wood is always the perfect partner to sleek Nordic inspired furniture and plenty of foliage ensures an inviting and homely feel while sheepskin rugs and clusters of cushions make sure that style doesn't come at the cost of comfort.
