

Longmont Community & Neighborhood Resources

A Division of Community Services

You belong in Longmont—a city
where neighbors know each other and communities find solutions together

Neighborhood Programs + Sustainability

Neighborhoods with active community groups share a stronger sense of community and quality of life, benefitting from improved health and happiness, lower crime rates, and higher property values. Our programs will empower your community to create sustainable and resilient neighborhoods. Connect with neighbors at a block party, host an outdoor movie night, plant a community pollinator garden, build a Little Free Library, or facilitate other community improvements.

Housing Retention

Whether you're a landlord or tenant, we can assist with conflict resolution and problem solving to prevent eviction from occurring. Our educational workshops and mediation services will equip you with communication strategies to help you create and maintain successful landlord/tenant relationships.

Cultural Awareness

We're committed to improving the social climate among our residents. Connect with us to find out how to build better relationships with your peers across socioeconomic, religious, ethnic, and cultural backgrounds.

Mediation Services + Referrals

If you work or live in Longmont, you are eligible for mediation and facilitation services to help you navigate a variety of work/life concerns, at no cost to you. Get help with issues affecting your family; housing; neighborhood; employment; and more. We can also refer you to the community or city service that best fits your needs.

Parking Enforcement

The City of Longmont's parking enforcement officers enjoy connecting with the community; if you see an officer walking around, say hello! Our officers are happy to chat with you about downtown parking opportunities and city-wide parking laws.
