Pocketless pants begone! Here comes the baddest, most convenient, and most comfortable pants of women's dreams, the cargo pants. Cargo pants are semi-big and baggy pants that have many large pockets - about six pockets in total!

They have become very trendy during the last few years and months because of their convenient style and because of how comfortable they are and make you look. They have mostly been popular in street fashion, but they have made their way up to catwalks and high-end fashion.

Cargo pants are the way to go; they have so many pockets that you can use to stash your things in them, so you do not have to carry a purse with you. Owning a pair of cargo pants, myself, I usually pair the pants with an oversized t-shirt to give off a comfortable and chill vibe. You can also pair the cargo pants with figure-hugging t-shirts and crop tops to show off your figure and balance out your body.

I have also seen celebrities pair cargo pants with long coats and hoodies during the winter. Depending on the look you want to achieve, you can wear either high heels or sneakers to complete your outfit. When I wear my cargo pants, I usually pair them with sneakers because I love to be comfortable.

Everyone should own at least one pair of cargo pants because they are very malleable. Cargo pants can be dressed up or down depending on the look and style you want to achieve. Not only that but also because the number of pockets these pants have is crazy. As women, we are so used to our pants not having pockets or small, tiny pockets that barely fit anything in them. So, to have pants like the cargo pants, we are now able to go purse free, and we do not have to carry everything in our hands!
