5 Things to Remember When Shipping Internationally

Shipping across borders is relatively easy when you have the right logistics partner. Still, to ensure that your shipment is safe and ticks all international shipping requirements, you must keep a few things in mind.

1. Check the List of Prohibited and Restricted Goods of the Receiving Country

To avoid issues with your shipment, it is vital that you confirm that it is not on the list of restricted goods of the country you are sending it. Customs officials prevent prohibited goods from entering the country, and you want to avoid this at all costs.

Also, check out for perishable goods. International shipping takes days which can ruin perishable goods.

2. Consider Insurance

Shipping couriers make sure they keep goods safe while in transit. Still, there are exceptions when unforeseen circumstances happen. Cases of missing parcels or damaged items are still prominent today, and the best you can do is to get insurance for your shipment. With insurance, you are guaranteed to have your money back in case of shipping issues.

3. Get all Necessary Documents Ready

Certificate of origin, commercial invoice, and some others are necessary documents required for international shipping. To avoid delays, getting all these documents ready for shipping is vital.

4. Pay Customs and Taxes

All countries have different customs tariffs and taxes, and knowing the one that applies to the country you are shipping to is a great way to prepare for international shipping. Taxes are often charged based on the value of your shipment. Using a duties and taxes calculator will save you time. All you need to do is to fill out the details of your shipment, and you can ascertain the amount you will be paying.

5. Package Goods Correctly

Compared to domestic shipping, international shipping takes days, and you must prepare your package for the long trip. First, ensure you use the correct packaging for the goods you are shipping. Fragile products and electronics will require additional packaging, so ensure you double up on packing materials.

Also, ensure you label fragile products appropriately to help the postal service staff handle your package correctly. Do not leave your package only to the care of the courier, do your due diligence by ensuring your packaging is secure and tamper-proof.
