

Picking Up the Pieces

Chattanooga divorce lawyer helps you overcome trying obstacles

Divorce is a process surrounded by emotion and uncertainty. It can often be difficult to prepare for the dissolution of your marriage, and even more difficult to move forward afterwards. When filing for divorce, decisions regarding relocation, child visitation and property division must be made. Given the complex nature of the divorce process and the desires of each spouse, discussing the conditions of your divorce can become tumultuous.

If you're seeking a divorce, it's beneficial to hire an attorney who can give you the personal attention and compassionate counsel you deserve. For more than 20 years, Alan Beard of the Beard Law Firm has been resolving divorce issues for clients in Chattanooga, TN. Contact the firm at 423.414.2384 for help taking the first step towards starting over.

Filing for divorce in Tennessee

Tennessee law requires you to have lived in the state for at least six months prior to filing for divorce, however, you may be able to file immediately if you are the victim of domestic violence. Tennessee has two grounds for divorce:

No-fault – generally sought when both spouses encounter irreconcilable differences

Fault – Generally sought when one spouse is to blame for the marriage's breakdown due to adultery, drug addiction, abuse or other factors

Regardless of the grounds for your divorce, it's important to have an attorney who understands what you're going through and strives to achieve the best possible outcome for you. Contact the Beard Law Firm to speak to a compassionate legal advocate.
