

Thank you, Mr. Bush

Yasmine Mousa -December 09,2019

Thank you, Mr. Bush, for Invading our homeland,

Thank you, Mr. Bush, for Turning Iraq overnight into a battlefield with illusive borders

Thank you, Mr. Bush, for Disbanding the Iraqi Army, founded in 1924

Thank you, Mr. Bush, for Inciting a sectarian rift, leading to a civil war for years to come.

Thank you, Mr. Bush, for Sixteen long bloody years making Wadi al-Salam in Nejaf the biggest cemetery in the world

Thank you, Mr. Bush, for Depriving us from our basic needs, a life

Thank you, Mr. Bush, for Giving us an unconstitutional constitution

Thank you, Mr. Bush, for Bringing us a corrupt government

After sixteen years, you remain the root cause of Iraq's maladies, Mr. Bush.

With simple tools, tremendous collaboration, and a few hours, the young Iraqi demonstrators in Tahrir Square brought life to an abandoned building. They created a habitat with electric power, water, and other rudiments, an art gallery, and a library. While the immoral government you brought Mr. Bush, despite the trillions of dollars from oil revenues annually, was not able to fix a single bulb in that building. On the contrary, the government is mass killing the right, the righteous, and the unarmed in Tahrir Square and elsewhere in Iraq. In what human or religious code is this brutal act acceptable?

If you believe in salvation and judgment day, as the pious and virtuous person you claim to be, you might contemplate a remedy!

We plead with you to return those people you brought to where they came from. Because, if not for you, they and their benefactors would not have dared dream of stepping foot on the Biblical Rivers' lands, making such illicit fortunes by robbing blind its misfortunate nation.

Thank you, Mr. Bush,
