Consultants + Udemy Business = Success!

Darryll, a new Actalent consultant, was looking for a role that would allow him to do both control design and programming. His experience was primarily in programmable logic controllers design, and he worried that without an educational background in programming, his career choices would be limited.

Darryll's recruiter, Janeisha Galloway, and her account-managing partner, Elizabeth Conley, found a role that required both control design and programming. To help develop his skills, Darryll utilized control programming courses through Udemy Business. This additional investment in his skills was enough to earn Darryll the position and help advance his career!

"No other recruiting agency that I've ever worked with, and I've worked with quite a few over the years, has offered such great service and continued education options. Udemy, combined with my enthusiasm, is going to be career changing for me," said Darryll.
