About Me

I am a confident, enthusiastic person who enjoys meeting new people and forming new relationships. I am also a lover of sport, specifically rugby, cricket and formula one. I am very easy to get along with and can be a great team player as well as taking the role of team leader if necessary.

Objective

I'm seeking a position in journalism that will challenge me to perform to the best of my ability and utilise my excellent writing and communication skills to engage with audiences.

Experience

My experience within the journalism sector is varied and I have performed interviews with several journalists in the sports industry as well as current and retired athletes in a range of different sports fields.

Skills

Writing and reporting

Whilst studying journalism at Leeds Beckett University I picked up proficient writing skills and have the ability to write informative, grammatically accurate articles in multiple different styles from colloquial to serious.

Investigative journalism

I have experience in writing on cases within court which has allowed me to gain the ability to retain and project information very quickly.

Communication and interpersonal skills

Over the years I have met lots of different and brilliant people and I have been able to form strong relationships with most people I come across.

Multimedia skills

Whilst at Leeds Beckett University I have been trained on how to create in-depth pieces of multimedia journalism with graphs and visual stimulation.
