Be intentional

Christmas is about more than gifts, lights, carols, and traditions. This year, allow your home décor to open the door to meaningful conversations about love, truth, and the gospel. Choose decorations that will reflect your faith, and let the gifts you give guide conversations to the birth of Jesus.

Throughout the catalog, look for ideas and ways you can be intentional about celebrating the joy of Christmas this year. And find even more gift and décor ideas in stores and online.

Be centered

The beginning of the gospel story can become the center of the Christmas season when you display a nativity. And when you give one as a gift, you'll invite others to celebrate the story of Jesus and to center their own families' celebrations of Christmas on the gospel. Return to the moments of Christ's birth daily, and allow the power of that simple scene to impact your heart as you prepare for Christmas.

Be hospitable

Hospitality is not merely entertaining—it's about serving and encouraging others through intentional acts of service and love. This season, open your home and heart to friends and neighbors, sharing the love of Christ. Often it's the little details—like the pan delivering homemade bread or the mug filled with cocoa—that show God's heart to others most.
