The Art of

This holiday season, there's always room for one more: It's a sentiment that VIETRI can get behind. The Italian tradition of gathering around the table is central to the renowned tabletop brand, along with an unwavering dedication to Italian craftsmanship. Informed by centuries-old techniques, skilled artisans in VIETRI's factory in Tuscany transform raw materials, like glass and native clays, into beautiful tableware rooted in authenticity. With the finishing touch of a luxurious glaze or hand-painted detail – like the watercolor feathers of a rooster's crest – each piece becomes a tangible homage to food and famiglia.

Rooster Plate

A symbol of good fortune and prosperity in Italy, this rooster is painted by hand on terra bianca, a white earthenware clay that lets colors stay true and bright.
