

Top 10 biscuits to enjoy with your brew

1. The Bourbon

The oblong shape offers a streamlined design for superb dunkability, whilst the buttercream filling reminds one of lazy summer days.

2. The Jammie Dodger

With its awesome name and relentless resilience in the face of repeated dunking, this shortbread and raspberry filled biscuit is a national favourite.

3. The Custard Cream

This sturdy sandwich biscuit packs a buttercream filling between satisfyingly crunchy biscuits. A perfect accompaniment to any cuppa.

4. The Chocolate Digestive

A favourite for seasoned tea drinkers. It allies digestives with glorious chocolate, for a pairing to rival cheese & crackers, or Lennon & McCartney.

5. The Pink Wafer

Flamboyant, extroverted, and easy to catch your eye from across the office, the pink wafer positively screams good taste and cheeky charm.

6. The Rich Tea

Scientists have proven Rich Tea biscuits to be the best for dunking. They offer up to 7 and 14 seconds before crumbling - outstanding results for serious dunkers.

7. The Shortbread

Short bread biscuits are neither short (in biscuit terms) nor made from bread. They're delicious, but pose a serious threat of biscuit failure when dunked.

8. The Ginger Nut

Sugar and spice, and all things nice, with ginger nut biscuits. Brandish one of these at your mug this autumn to get into the spirit of the season.

9. The Plain Digestive

We appreciate their sense of humility, but "plain" digestives are anything but! A national staple, they can liven up any meeting with their subtle charm.

10. The Hobnob

Crammed full of nutritious oats, the hobnob is like a bowl of porridge. Except it's a biscuit. 2015 marks its 30th anniversary, so three cheers!
