I am a digital content manager specialising in copywriting, content creation, strategy, brand messaging, UX, social media, and marketing. I have 5 years of international experience working in the creative industries, and am bilingual in English and French.

I turn creative brainstorming and ideation into brand voices and effective content, and use my passion for storytelling to help companies and entrepreneurs connect with their audience. Creative consulting is at the center of how I work, and I combine my analytical and research skills in a strategic way to produce engaging, unique content.
