Fall into Autumn with seasonal events at Houston's Central Market

(Houston, Texas) — Starting October 1st through January 1st Central Market's Houston location will offer various seasonal events in store to prepare for the holidays.

"We just want people to have fun, be inspired, and really enjoy the holiday season," said Juan Gonzalez, manager of the Central Market Cooking School. "The store will have festivals and events for guests to explore while the cooking school will be hosting Fall, Halloween, Thanksgiving, and New Year's Eve themed classes."

October will see the inclusion of Fall food classes, a class themed around Netflix's breakout hit "Stranger Things," while November will include a children's build-your-own gingerbread house class and more. Prices for classes range from $25-$65 with the higher priced classes including multiple courses and wine. The necessary registration for classes can be completed in-store or online on the Cooking School calendar.

Central Market is a specialty foods store located throughout Texas. The store is a part of HEB Grocery, a Texas institution. The Westheimer location is the only Central Market in Houston and has been serving the community for nearly two decades. A recent remodeling has expanded the size and selection of the store with a grand re-opening having taken place in August.

Those interested in the Fall events schedule can stop by Central Market's location at 3815 Westheimer Rd., Houston, Texas 77027, check the Cooking School calendar, and subscribe to the "Weekly Savor" releases.
