With a life insurance policy, your business isn't just built to thrive today—it's built to endure for life

Key person insurance:

The insurance policy you secure on a key employee's life means your business receives the proceeds of that policy in the event of the person's death. This helps offset potential revenue loss and covers recruitment and training costs during the transition period.

Succession planning:

Ensure your business lives on after your time by providing the funds to facilitate a smooth ownership transfer. Without a life insurance policy in place, your businesses could be forced to enter a partial or full sale to bear the high costs of a buy-sell agreement.

Estate planning:

A life insurance policy provides the funds to ensure your chosen heirs are empowered to take over the business without the burden of taxes, creditor claims, and other expenses associated with ownership transfer.

Executive compensation:

Attract top talent and retain existing ones by providing competitive bonus plans through payback programs. Funding bonuses with a life insurance policy or annuity also offers valuable tax benefits for the business.
