

Kitchen Color Trends for 2023

You spend a lot of time in your kitchen, so why not have a space that represents your unique style? Defining that style, though, can sometimes be challenging. From countertops to backsplashes and sinks, there's plenty of decisions to make, but it all starts with the right cabinet color. Here's the trends we're seeing in 2023.

White

Bright white kitchens have been the popular choice for years now, and people continue to love the look. You can still make a white kitchen all your own, though. Consider pairing your white cabinets with gold hardware and plenty of wood accents to warm up the space. You can even swap your granite countertops for a quartz that extends up through the backsplash. This will create a clean and sophisticated look that will be in style for years to come.

Warm Neutrals

If you're ready to walk away from white but not quite ready to commit to bold colors, warm neutrals could be the right color palate for you. From cream to beige, and even greige, you'll have plenty of options to choose from. Add some black hardware and a patterned backsplash for a modern look.

Green

Not everyone is ready to go bold with kitchen cabinet colors, and that's okay. If you are interested in color, though, you can't go wrong with green. Whether you choose a light sage, a deep forest green, or something in between, you'll be right on trend for 2023. Consider starting small, with a green island and butcher block top or paint all your cabinets in this new neutral.

Thinking of Selling?

If you're thinking of putting your home on the market this summer, consider giving your kitchen a new look for its new buyers. As they say, kitchens can sell homes, and a space with an updated look may help your home stand out in a crowded market. The right kitchen updates could increase your sales price, as well!
