Chip is an excellent listener, which comes in handy as the First Mate to his beloved Captain Salty. As Team B.ARK makes their way into the battlefield, Chip periodically pops in to offer the team extra intel on Captain Salty's behalf. When he's not eagerly awaiting orders, Chip can be found making friends and trying new foods from across the far reaches of space.

Facts About Floofas

Floofas are a peace-loving alien race from a neighboring galaxy who enjoy learning about new cultures and are absolutely fascinated with Earth food (especially pineapples). Known throughout space as lovers of cuisine, Floofas have mastered the art of bringing good food to the negotiation table. They don't mind being mistaken for various species of Earth animals because they love an opportunity to share their unique culture with others. After achieving perfect harmony amongst each other, they formed an interstellar aid program that patrols the vastness of space to assist any struggling lifeforms they come across. Under the command of Captain Salty, they have helped a dozen other societies across multiple different galaxies achieve peace and prosperity. While on a routine run through the stars, the crew picked up a distress call from the edges of the Milky Way and discovered an escape pod with Team B.ARK inside. Once the Floofas were briefed on the dire state of Earth, and all attempts at negotiations with Dark Tide failed, Captain Salty and his crew agreed to assist Team B.ARK in their quest to defeat Dark Tide and bring peace back to the galaxy.

Villain Lore

Spike the Narwhal

Spike was born in the Arctic Ocean near Canada to a small family of six whales. He loved traveling between Greenland and Russian waters with his pod in search of food and new friends. While on a customary migration, a group of human hunters corralled the pod and ensnared them in nets aboard their fishing boats. Spike barely evaded capture and was forced to watch his family be taken away to unknown lands. Alone and unsure what to do, Spike was elated to hear whispers throughout the water of a mysterious fish gathering an army to invade land-dwellers. Spike was eventually recruited into Chog's army and fitted with menacing weapons. He greatly admires Vic the Sea Snake and strives to emulate his fireceness in battle.

Vic the Sea Snake

A long lost descendant of the sea snakes warriors or lore, Vic feels immense pressure to step up and make his mighty ancestors proud. In combination with his hatred for land-dwellers, Vic is also intensely envious of creatures with limbs. After Chog announced open war against the surface world, Vic was eagerly recruited into his army. Using Chog's cybernetic tech--and a few modifications--Vic can now fulfill his life-long fantasy of using arms and legs to help Dark Tide take over the world and expand their empire across the Solar System.

Bubbles the Goldfish

Bubbles was born in Paris where he was separated from his parents at birth, bagged, and given to a little girl as a prize for winning a carnival game. The only issue is, he suffers from poor long-term memory and can't remember any of this! Content to live out his life in the cramped confines of a goldfish bowl, Bubbles was introduced to Felicity the Cat after his owner adopted her and brought her home. The two became best friends right before the Dark Tide abducted Bubbles and sold him the idea "do you want to be a small fish in a big pond, or a big fish in an expanding universe?"

Enyo the Anglerfish

Enyo the Anglerfish was afraid of the dark as a child and now always has his light on. As a young fish, he was not very good at making friends and developed a tendency to hide away from his neighbors. He watched, year after year, as his home on the bottom of the sea-floor slowly filled up with toxic and dangerous pollution. As his home became even more inhospitable, his neighbors and main sources of food fled to cleaner waters. Now he is in a constant state of hunger and preys upon anything that moves within the darkness of his deep-sea abode.

Kraken

The Kraken has no friends. The Kraken needs no friends. He is only here to destroy. Beware his hideous screech capable of destroying eardrums for miles.

Chog

Chog is the mysterious creator of the technologically advanced super-weapons used by Dark Tide. Once upon a time, he was a simple fish living in the Gulf. Thanks to a tub of plutonium discarded in the sea by irresponsible sailors, Chog's brain evolved into a superbrain, and he went from a normal fish to an evil genius! Now he is commander-in-chief to the entire Dark Tide Army and the number one target of Team B.ARK.
