Improve Your View of the World

By Nissa Hallquist

While you've been stuck at home for months on end, any imperfections that your house has have probably become harder to ignore. In fact, things like faded siding, old, ugly doors and the hazy and drafty windows you stare out of day after day aren't just hard to ignore, they're downright annoying.

You've put it off long enough. Now is the time to take charge and ensure your home is the same stylish and functional place you've always wanted it to be. But where do you begin?

Windows

Your home's windows directly impact how you see the world, and how the world sees your home. Their size, shape and architectural details should enhance the overall style of your home. Plus, they are one of the most important elements when it comes to energy efficiency and minimizing any street noise.

Every home is different when it comes to style and efficiency needs. That's why replacement window frames come in wood, vinyl or fiberglass. You could choose between double or even triple-pane glass. Then, you can decide how you want each one to function: double-hung, casement, slider, folding, etc. It's a lot to decide, so getting professional input is essential to getting the beautiful final product you want.

Doors

You want to make the best first impression possible, which is what the right front door can do. And the right patio door can help to both frame your view of your back yard and bring the outside in. Similar to windows, high-quality doors can also greatly impact a home's efficiency.

Siding

Well-chosen siding provides the right foundation for a home's curb appeal. And the right siding protects your home from the elements and pests, insulates it from outdoor temperatures, and can even help to reduce external sound by up to 45%.

Patio Covers

The addition a patio cover literally extends your amount of useful living space. They include pergolas, gazebo-style shade structures, and sunrooms. Northwest Exteriors combines energy efficiency and flexible design to create a truly superior custom patio cover specifically designed for your family's needs and lifestyle.

Where You Can Go

As the name might imply, Northwest Exteriors specializes in all the elements that make a home's exterior shine. Founded in 1995 by Tom Orr, Northwest has earned endless accolades for their high-quality replacement windows, as well as their many other home improvement products and services.

With over 26 years of experience to go on, Northwest Exteriors has the expertise to help homeowners choose the right products for them and their home. Then, the installation of new or replacement windows or doors, siding or patio covers proceeds with the same level of professionalism and expediency.

And that continues even in COVID times. The company has remained up and running since the pandemic hit, and it follows all recommended CDC guidelines when it comes to protective gear and the safe scheduling of appointments. And thanks to the stimulus package, Northwest Exteriors is passing the savings onto their customers with free labor on all installations.

In other words, you don't have to lament your aging windows anymore. Once you get them replaced, then you may actually be happy that you have to stay at home.
