ABOUT ME

I am a budding narrative designer who is willing to explore anything and everything to make a difference in the industry. I aspire to write the very stories that sculpted my dream of having a career in the world of game development.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Narrative Designer 2020 - Current

DMforAdventure | Remote

- Met strict deadlines to create content ranging from lore bibles, quest lines, and in-depth character creation.
- Spearheaded projects to make sure that the content was catered to the designated market.
- Relied on innovative thinking to create over 50 pages of content on average to meet the desires of consumers.
- Remained flexible and responsive to all feedback for greater consumer satisfaction.
- Customized all content and criteria to ensure the product palatable and appropriate for varying age groups including children with additional needs.

Coordinator 2024 - Current

Better Play Studios | Remote

- Coordinated and maintained communication with developers, investors, and all interested parties.
- Produced effective copy for various announcements, blog posts, and other necessary written media while maintaining a high attention to detail.
- Interfaced with venture capitalists to receive grants for further progress within the startup.
- Vetted and assessed talent to further be showcased on the platform.
- Maintained strict levels of confidentiality and discretion when discussing any future projects within the studio.

Student Instructor: Adobe Products 2022 - 2023

High Point University | High Point, North Carolina

- Made detailed learning plans for current curriculum
- Fielded questions and provided directions about Adobe Products.
- Fostered an environment where students were comfortably engaging with each other about projects they would have otherwise been confused about.
- On call to meet with students and advise them on aspects of assignments to assure no failures outside of designated class times.
- Collaborated with 60+ students three times a week.
- Accessible for all styles of learning.
