

The Best Way to Lower Your Credit Card's APR

Is your credit card APR starting to feel like an expensive ball and chain that's weighing you down? While some factors determining your APR are out of your control, there's plenty in your control. Read our guide to learn how to lower your APR or break free entirely.

Why Some People's Credit Scores Might Go Up Soon

Who wouldn't love a little bump in their credit scores? For some people, that may soon be a reality, as the credit bureaus recently announced they'll be removing all tax lien data from credit reports.

Worried About Social Media Data Theft? You Aren't Alone

A recent Gallup poll revealed 55% of U.S. Facebook users are very concerned about data theft when it comes to the social network, and Google users are just as worried. Can you protect your data?

Software Vendor Breach Impacts 4 Major Companies

Delta, Best Buy, Sears and Kmart were all recently affected by a data breach within a software vendor they all use. Learn what happened and how to tell whether your information is at risk.

Get Help with Tax Identity Theft Issues from the FTC

Government agencies like the FTC are a great resource for help with all kinds of consumer complaints, and now the FTC has teamed up with the IRS to make reporting tax fraud problems easier.

This Hotel-Branded Credit Card Just Added New Perks

Do you find yourself frequently traveling for business? One hotel-branded travel rewards credit card is getting a facelift, and it's offering some stellar new perks which you won't want to miss out on.

Document Storage Tips to Prepare for an Emergency

Like it or not, sometimes our lives are ruled by pieces of paper. If a flood, fire or other emergency were to strike, would your important documents be safe? Follow our tips to get them prepared.