

I hope this letter finds you well. As another winter winds down and we officially welcome the spring season with its warmer weather and longer days, I wanted to share the 2024 Luxury Outlook Report from Sotheby's International Realty with you. Now in its fourth edition, the Luxury Outlook offers an exclusive and comprehensive look into current real estate trends, lifestyle topics, and statistics from high-end residential markets around the Globe.

In real estate, accurate reporting matters. As representatives and leaders in Utah's luxury market, it's crucial that we stay current with evolving trends and share that information with our clients. Reporting is one aspect of how we curate a luxury experience for our clients—and the Luxury Outlook Report is just one of many publications we're proud to release each year. Our team is award-winning; we have the experience, resources and sophistication necessary to succeed in today's market. Providing accurate market information is how we stay informed and ensure we're offering our clients an experience that goes above and beyond their expectations.

It is my hope that the 2024 Luxury Outlook Report will offer you some insight into global trends, art and lifestyle topics, and today's rapidly evolving luxury real estate industry.
