ABOUT:

The power of reading is something we cherish and celebrate at [REDACTED]. Operating out of [REDACTED], our family has turned our passion for literature into a business built for the community. We strive to serve and uplift our community by providing access to valuable resources at an affordable rate.

Reading can take you on a journey or provide you with an escape. It can educate, inspire, and ignite passions. We understand how vital it is for all to have access to literature. So, we have dedicated our lives to this business.

We are a small, family owned and operated business, so we have the sense of community and humanity that large corporate bookstores lack. We look at our customers as neighbors, because you truly are! We, too, are part of the community and therefore only hope we can make a difference in the lives of the people around us.

We love books and it is a dream-come-true to be able to share this life-long passion with the world. We are always here to help, whether that be by ordering requested titles, making book suggestions, or simply providing you with the experience of visiting a quaint and calming atmosphere where we truly value your time.

Come join us and we will help find the perfect book for you!

OUR STORE:

In the quaint and comfortable environment provided by [REDACTED], we have thousands of gently used books for adults, teens and children. We offer a range of genres including literary fiction, non-fiction, history, romance, mystery, and more!

There are also varying new book titles available at a 20% discount!

We provide special discounts for college students, senior citizens, homeschooling parents and educators.

Join our trade credit program which allows you to purchase used books at 50% off and new books at 15% off. All you have to do is bring in your used literary materials that you no longer want or need! We take the clutter off your hands, and you get awesome discounts in return!
