

To Be Trapped Inside One's Head

I am stuck

inside a spiral that curves like the corner of lips if kisses were forever.

Sliding down its walls, I realize I am trapped in an eternal jail cell — an infinite slide.

My only chance of escape is to break the line, to fall through the cracks; but I do not think I am strong enough,

I have never had it in me.