A photograph of three young adults sitting on concrete steps outdoors. The person in the center is a young man with glasses and a patterned sweater, smiling. To his left is a young man in a white hoodie with 'Preston' written on it. To his right is a young woman with long dark hair wearing a dark jacket and jeans. They are all looking towards each other as if in conversation. The background shows a modern building with large windows and some trees with autumn leaves.

"I'm originally from Wiltshire. I visited Open Days at universities all over the UK before finally choosing Preston. Back then, I never expected to end up moving up north, but I really liked the vibe of the campus and everyone I met was so friendly. Although Preston is a city, it's small enough that there's still a real sense of community here. A lot of my friends chose to study at universities in other northern cities, but the cost of living here in comparison to Liverpool or Manchester is starkly different. In Preston everything is so much more affordable."

Matt Allen (centre), BA (Hons) Accounting and Finance.

Matt recently secured a financial graduate role at Warburtons in Bolton. He's planning to remain living in Preston for the foreseeable future.

"By having access to industry-standard facilities like the TV studio and media store, we rapidly gained all sorts of new skills. It led to an amazing opportunity to work together on a TV production, creating 'In Focus', consisting of four 24-minute episodes which were broadcast on the Sky Showcase TV channel.
