

Clockwise from top right:

Laszlo pauses to spread his father's ashes in a familiar collapsed lava tunnel while hiking in Craters of the Moon National Monument.

Back in Oregon, Laszlo takes a moment to reflect on the journey and his return home after spending the previous year in Denver, with his father.

Winston Laszlo sits unattended while his son, Branson, positions a shot with his Bolex camera.

Laszlo sits after packing what he can of his father's life in Denver. This was a difficult day.