HGTV's 100 Day Dream Home Returns with Two Inspiring Local Stories

HGTV's hit show 100 Day Dream Home, hosted by Tampa locals Brian and Mika Kleinschmidt, returns for its seventh season with two compelling local stories that showcase our region's resilience and community. In the episode, "After the Storm", which aired Oct. 21, Brian and Mika help a couple rebuild their dream home, after Hurricanes Helene and Milton destroyed their previous home. The episode, which filmed in Indian Rocks Beach, showcases the heart and scenery of Pinellas County.

In another episode that aired on Sept. 30, "It Takes a Village" follows the Kleinschmidts as they partner with Habitat for Humanity Tampa Bay Gulfside to fulfill single mother Lacey Simmons' dream of homeownership. The episode also highlights Habitat's CEO Build, which brings together 75 local leaders to provide financial resources and volunteer their time to make dream homes a reality. Both episodes capture the spirit of overcoming obstacles and the joy of creating homes in our community.
