

Google Has Spoken: Get Responsive

Starting April 21st, 2015 your website's Google search positioning will either be rewarded or penalized based on whether or not it's responsive (mobile friendly).

If you don't go responsive, your Google search positioning could suffer significantly.

The test will show whether or not your site meets Google's mobile requirements. If it doesn't, your website needs to be converted immediately!

WE CAN HELP

Marketing Salon's web design experts will work with you personally to smoothly transition your website to a responsive design that will improve the overall look of your site, enhance the mobile user experience, and give a significant boost to your Google search positioning.

The longer you wait to convert, the more detrimental it could be to driving traffic to your business's website.
