

ALL ABOUT MSU'S OLDEST LIT MAG

redcedar
REVIEW

AT MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

EST. 1963

A QUICK RUNDOWN

What Is RCR?

The Red Cedar Review is the longest running undergraduate-managed publication in the U.S.

Published each spring, the literary magazine features poetry, prose, and art submissions from a collection of unique writers.

EST. 1963

THE MAIN GOALS

The Mission

Red Cedar Review* is proud to exclusively feature the work of writers with limited publication experience. RCR aims to uplift voices in multiple genres of art, and further upholds these values with its completely student-managed process.

EST. 1963

THE TEAM BEHIND THE MAGAZINE

Who Runs RCR?

Red Cedar Review is managed by a class of undergraduate students at Michigan State University
ENG 483: Seminar in Literary Editing and Publishing.

This year, the class is supervised by managing editor Dr. Kate Birdsall.

EST. 1963

THE CLASS, THE WORK, THE PRODUCT

How Does It Work?

- Submissions are reviewed among teams
- Content is discussed & selected
- Order is finalized
- Rounds of copy editing
- Artwork is selected
- Layout is finalized
- Author + editor bios are added
- Final read through before publication!

EST. 1963

READ, READ, & READ SOME MORE

Support RCR

Interested readers can find the current and previous issues of RCR
and our blog on our website:

redcedar-review.com

Find us on Instagram!

@red.cedar.review

EST. 1963

SEND US YOUR WORK!

Interested In Writing?

Interested writers can submit poetry or short prose – including flash, genre fiction, one-act plays, and creative nonfiction. Visit the submissions page on our website for more info.

We prioritize the work of upcoming writers/writers who have been published less than 4 times!

EST. 1963