

Deepfake

I found this on Reddit. It says it's a deepfake program rendering in real time. When the video is playing in real time the movements the source makes are the same as the rendered version makes. You can see the pictures are very different. I read where most deepfakes have blurring around the contours of the face. Looking at the rendering the face seems a bit off from the rest of the body showing. Like a face was just taken from somewhere else and slapped onto the neck of this picture.

Post Misleadingly Questions Unfinished Ballot Counting in Some States

November 22, 2024

I found this for misinformation on factcheck.org. They have been working with Facebook on news posts flagged by users as being misinformation. I think it is easy for someone to believe that this post about ballot counting to be real, especially with how voters were feeling about the two presidential candidates. If Trump had lost the election this would be an article, he would absolutely run with about voting issues and losing the election.

Date for general elections is December 7, Electoral Commission responds to disinformation regarding date for the elections.

24th November, 2024

Saturday, 7th December, 2024 - Date of 2024 General Election

The Electoral Commission has taken note of a misleading broadcast by a presenter on Wontumi TV claiming that there would be different voting dates for some Presidential Candidates in the December 7th General Election. The Electoral Commission urges the Public to disregard the misleading statements.

The General Public is informed that the 2024 Election will take place on 7th December, 2024.

Voters are reminded that voting on the 7th of December, 2024, starts from 7am until 5pm. The Commission encourages voters to go out in their numbers and cast their votes in an orderly manner.

Election 2024 - your vote, your future.

Thank you.

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'S. Tettey'.

Samuel Tettey
Deputy Chairman, Operations

So, I took this off Facebook as disinformation. Talks about how for the presidential election in Ghana is on December 7th, but a broadcast by a presenter on Wontumi TV said there would be different voting dates for some candidates. This type of disinformation can have a huge effect on who may or may not win in this election.