

Lipscomb Academy Annual Report 2018

I took over coordination of this annual report after design had stalled due to lack of communication between departments and a new vice president brought her new perspective to the piece. Because distribution was already greatly delayed, we stuck with the basic design that had been used the year before, focusing on adding additional information required by the new vice president and completing the piece as soon as possible.

Lipscomb Academy Annual Report 2019

The next year we began with a better understanding of what the academy staff and the vice president were looking for in the piece. The 2019 report included larger, more compelling photos; a stronger focus on engaging donors and clearly showing them the impact of their donations; a design that better communicates the brand of the school (a prestigious school offering unique educational opportunities) and an organization that better highlights the distinctives of the school.

PASSION FOR INVESTING IN THE LIVES OF YOUNG PEOPLE DRIVES GRIFFITHS

Investing in the future of young people is close to the hearts of Jim and Pam Griffith.

Earlier this academic year, the Griffiths made the lead gift in the upcoming expansion project at the Lipscomb Brewer Campus that will provide facilities to house a new special needs program at the Lower School. The inspiration for their gift? Their 4-year-old grandson Solomon James Rodan, better known as Solly.

At birth, Solly suffered three massive strokes, and at the age of one he was diagnosed with triplegic cerebral palsy. Since his birth on Oct. 9, 2014, the Rodan family has been on a journey.

As Solly's mom, Camie Griffith Rodan, has talked with families of special needs children in the Nashville area, she recognized a real need to serve children like Solly once they reach elementary school age.

"There seemed no better place than Lipscomb to step up and include children with special needs within its mission," said Rodan.

In April, the Rodans and Griffiths gathered at the site of the future Solly School, at the Lower School's Brewer Campus, for a groundbreaking ceremony. The Solly School will offer the access, flexibility, sensory accommodations and safety needed to ensure a successful educational experience for students with special needs while also offering as fully integrated a schedule as possible in appropriate grade-level classrooms, chapel, recess and lunch periods.

"I would like to thank the leadership of Lipscomb Academy, for the perspiration it has taken to make this a reality," said Jim Griffith, who held Solly in his arms as he spoke at the ceremony. "I would like to thank President Lowry and Rhonda for the leadership to truly make this thing happen. And then I would like to thank the community in advance, because for this to be a reality, there is going to have to be a lot more financial support on an operational basis to make sure all kids like Solly have an opportunity to come to Lipscomb on the same terms."

Many of Solly's family members are integral parts of the Lipscomb Academy family. Three of Solly's cousins attended Lipscomb Academy. Eli and Emma Weber are currently students, and their brother, Reid, graduated from the academy in 2014 and from the university in 2018. Solly's aunt, Jennifer Weber, is on faculty in Lipscomb University's School of Nursing. His uncle, Josh Weber, is a former academy middle school faculty member and coach. His grandfather, Jim, is a member of Lipscomb's Board of Trustees, and his grandmother, Pam, is active in fundraising for Mustang athletics.

"We are grandparents who invest in our grandchildren. We have been amazingly blessed, and what drives us is that we believe we are called to give back in ways that create opportunities for young people, particularly those with special needs," said Jim Griffith.

The Griffiths are passionate about serving children with special needs around the world as well and have been involved with related mission projects in China, India and South Africa. They also previously donated funds for the academy's Griffith Family Soccer Complex, located on Franklin Road.

"We believe providing access to a Lipscomb Academy experience for students with special needs is an extension of our mission," said Jonathan Sheahen, head of the Lower School. "We are continually looking for ways to live out our Christian mission and provide educational opportunities that align with who we are and who we are called to be. The goal for students in the special needs program will be similar to all students at Lipscomb Academy—to help them achieve their academic, social and emotional potential."

FIRST ANNUAL Day of Giving

Lipscomb Academy joined with Lipscomb University to host the inaugural Day of Giving on March 12, with a goal to reach 500 investors in a 24-hour period, in hopes of raising $100,000 to match a gift provided by an anonymous donor. As one herd, Lipscomb surpassed this goal with 2,741 donors contributing $542,164 by the end of the day. Because of 464 generous Mustangs, the academy raised $35,647 to impact 41 school programs.

A spring groundbreaking ceremony was held for the expansion of the Lower School Brewer Campus, which will include the future Solly School.

My teachers challenged me to push beyond my comfort zone by forcing us to ask tough questions and solve complex problems. Even though this was difficult at times, I always knew this process would equip me with tools necessary for success. And these teachers did not merely give us information; they gave us understanding. In just the first few weeks of college I felt their influence as I am prepared and confident facing new challenges."

ATHLETICS

The 2017-2018 school year marked a new chapter in Mustang Athletics as the school moved to the Tennessee Secondary Athletic Association Division II classification. This move offered many opportunities, such as the ability to offer need-based financial aid to student athletes, as well as challenges, such as facing some of the premier athletic teams across the state. The Mustangs saw success in the fall, with the boys and girls cross country teams participating in the state meet, volleyball tying for second in the region and the middle school football team going undefeated. A strong spring season followed with the girls tennis team and girls softball team finishing as two of the top eight teams in the state in their sport. To finish the year, Lipscomb Academy won its first Division II State Championship — the girls 4x100 meter track relay. With this win, Lipscomb Academy now has more than 130 combined team and individual state championships.

ARTS

We believe that artistic expression can be one of the most transformative ways to explore the gifts God has blessed us with, making the visual and performing arts a key component of our holistic education. The 2017-2018 school year featured a number of outstanding performances, which were recognized at some of the highest levels across the state. Our high school choruses received the first- and second- highest ratings at the state choral festival, continuing 31 consecutive years of honors at this festival — more than any other program in Tennessee. The chorus also performed in venues ranging from the Token's Show at the Ryman Auditorium to congregations across Middle Tennessee. In addition, the cast of "Cinderella" received nine Spotlight Award nominations at the Nashville High School Theatre Awards, winning in categories of Best Vocals, Best Male Vocalist (Keller Montgomery) and Best Overall Tech. Looking ahead, Lipscomb Academy continues to grow its partnership with Lipscomb University's George Shinn College of Entertainment & the Arts, providing the most comprehensive pre-K through college arts opportunity in the state.

SPIRITUAL FORMATION

Throughout its 127-year history, Lipscomb Academy has sought to be an intentionally Christian community, helping guide students to become leaders in the Nashville community and across the world. As we began the 2017-2018 school year, a student-inspired spiritual formation theme was put into place intended to guide our student body, as well as faculty and staff. The theme “Walking with God” and accompanying verse in Micah 6:8 were selected. Throughout the year, students and faculty shared examples of those “Walking with God” as well as contemporary examples of a life lived in pursuit of God. This theme permeated all areas of spiritual formation and service — from student-lead, small-group chapels to guiding our 131 students and teachers who served locally and abroad on mission trips to locations including India, Guatemala, Houston and Haiti.

WE'RE INCREDIBLY THANKFUL FOR OPPORTUNITIES TO SERVE

“Chapel Practicum has impacted me on a spiritual level more than any other class at Lipscomb Academy. It has helped me grow so much. I have learned more about leadership and become more confident in the man and person I will be in the future. Joseph Connor has impacted this school in such a special way. He truly loves what he does.”

Alumni

Alumni are a vital part of any school's story, as they have paved the way for students who follow in their footsteps. Throughout the academy's 127-year history, we have been honored to have thousands of graduates who claim Lipscomb Academy and who are making life-changing impacts in the Nashville community and in our world. Below is a snapshot of three alumni who were recently honored as leaders in their fields. The full group of honorees are highlighted on the next page.

LaDonna Boyd ('03)

President, CEO and Chairman,
R.H. Boyd Publishing Corp.

LaDonna Boyd, a Lipscomb Lifer, is the president, CEO and chairman of R. H. Boyd Publishing Corporation and one of Nashville's Top 30 Under 30 Honorees. Currently, she is a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Education in organizational leadership at Pepperdine University. She is most proud of Lipscomb for the balance of academic rigor and faith-based education that encourages inquisitiveness as students wrestle through gaining and understanding the truth. She would advise current students to "stick with your beliefs and never be afraid to ask questions, always be true to yourself and your convictions."

Dr. Caleb Rucker ('02)

Assistant Professor of Mechanical,
Aerospace and Biomedical Engineering
with the University of Tennessee Knoxville

Dr. Caleb Rucker, also a Lipscomb Lifer, is a tenure-track assistant professor at the University of Tennessee in the mechanical, aerospace and biomedical engineering department. He currently teaches graduate and undergraduate classes and advises Ph.D. and master's students, while directing the research lab for Robotics, Engineering and Continuum Mechanics in Healthcare. He has received numerous awards and accolades, including the National Science Foundation CAREER award, which is the foundation's most prestigious awards in support of early-career faculty who have the potential to serve as academic role models in research and education and to lead advances in the mission of their department or organization. He would advise current students to make the most of their relationships with their teachers. They will be so meaningful and impact your life in ways you can't foresee, he said.

Steve R. Dozier ('75)

Criminal Court Judge for the Davidson
County Criminal Court Division

Steve Dozier has served as a Tennessee state criminal court judge for 21 years, previously serving as an assistant district attorney for Davidson County. Dozier is extremely active in the Nashville community, formerly serving as first vice president for the Nashville Bar Association and the Tennessee Supreme Court District 5 Investigating Committee a long with numerous other boards and commissions. Dozier said he feels Lipscomb taught him discipline and respect that has been a guiding principle throughout his career. The spiritual formation he received at Lipscomb has been crucial to his Christian growth and in raising his three children, he said.

Wonder Time.

WONDER TIME, ART PROJECTS TELL THE BIBLE'S BIG STORY AT LOWER SCHOOL

It is not always easy for very young children to grasp how spiritual concepts apply to their young lives, but Lipscomb Academy's Melanie Grogan, the Lower School's first spiritual formation director hired three years ago, has found plenty of creative and innovative ways to help children in the fourth grade and younger to understand their spiritual walk with God.

A spiritual curriculum, the six Cs of the Bible's overall story: creation, crisis, covenant, Christ, Church and communion, is embedded into chapel services, art projects and the academic curriculum to "help kids understand the big story of the Bible and their own place within that overall story," said Grogan.

During the 2017-18 school year, Grogan coordinated a series of art projects, where locally connected artists created works related to the six Cs. This past school year, those original artworks were displayed on the Lower School walls, along with a new art project, a collage of bowls handmade by students, to reinforce the 2018-19 spiritual theme: "Filled."

During chapel services, the Lower School has explored the "Filled" theme by watching and learning from a potter as she created a vessel on a potter's wheel and hearing students' and teachers' testimonies of their own challenges, among many other interactive and hands-on activities.

Another technique Grogan uses to engage young students is called Wonder Time, where children sit in a circle and are invited to enter into the Bible story lesson by making comments that begin with "I wonder".

"With typical Bible curriculum you often find that the objective is stated at the beginning of the lesson, such as 'We should share.' With that approach, we are telling children what they should get out of it, rather than allowing the Word to speak to the children," Grogan said.

During Wonder Time, Grogan hears student comments such as "I wonder what it would have been like to be a little boy and to stand that close to Jesus" and "I wonder what Jesus said as he blessed the bread."

"They are so into the story, and they become so engaged," she said.

Grogan says that she strives to use every moment of each school year to be spiritually formative.

"The goal is for each child to understand the big story, to understand their place in it, and to learn who God is and how that shapes who we are and how it changes our interaction with people," she said.

Alumni Awards

The 2017-2018 marked the first Alumni Awards for Lipscomb Academy. This new tradition honors distinguished alumni for professional, personal and civic achievements. During our awards ceremony, the honorees share personal stories of their educational experiences and the impact Lipscomb Academy had on their lives and accomplishments.

MUSTANG ALUMNI AWARDS

Established in 2017, the Mustang Alumni Awards are the highest honor given to a former student who embodies the mission and principles of Lipscomb's 128-year history. The awards honor graduates who have made a lasting impact on this institution, in their career field and through service to others.

PAUL HEMBREE ('39)
Brentwood, Tennessee

"I wish every student, everywhere could have an opportunity to attend a place like Lipscomb."

Hembree served eight years as CEO of Nashville Electric Service, after a lifetime of working at the utility. He started as a junior engineer in 1947 after returning from service in the U.S. Army. He entered Lipscomb Academy in the sixth grade. During his senior year, he was voted by his teammates as the Best Mustang for the 1938-1939 basketball season. After attending Lipscomb University for two years, he obtained an engineering degree from Vanderbilt University. After retiring in 1985, Hembree took an art class in painting at Lipscomb University and has since sold more than 200 pieces of art.

MARY NELLE COPASS HUTCHESON CHUMLEY ('49)
Nashville, Tennessee

"Put the Lord first in your life, in everything you do, and everything else will take care of itself."

Although she did not begin classes at Lipscomb Academy until high school, Chumley grew up on Lipscomb's campus: Her grandfather, Claude H. Williams served as the secretary on the Lipscomb Board of Directors. She has dedicated more than 61 years, and counting, of volunteer work for Lipscomb. She is a founding member of the Associated Women for Lipscomb, and during her 32 years of service, the association has provided more than $3 million in scholarships to Lipscomb students. During her senior year at the academy, she wrote an essay on "What Lipscomb Means to Me," winning first place and a pin she still has today.

ANNUAL REPORT ON GIVING

This is my prayer and thanksgiving for you, Lipscomb Academy family. Thank you for your continued generosity in giving your time, talent and resources to make a difference in the lives of academy students and to advance our mission of educating minds and hearts for Christ.

Our students and faculty were once again blessed by the tremendous generosity demonstrated in support of giving, community events and volunteer service opportunities. As you read through this report, you will find the names of parents, grandparents, alumni, faculty, friends and staff who have supported Lipscomb Academy over the 2017-2018 school year. We hope this will be informative for you, as well as inspiring.

Thank you for your continued support of Lipscomb Academy and furthering the mission of equipping students to love to learn, learn to love, and to live to serve.

Many Blessings,

CHARLES FIELDS ('64)
Houston, Texas/Beaver Creek, Colorado

"My Lipscomb education taught me the importance of hard work, focus, perseverance and Christian values."

After working almost 39 years for Exxon Mobil Corporation, Fields retired from his position as the executive vice president of Exxon Development Company in 2006. He became a Mustang in 1956 as a fourth-grader and later graduated from Vanderbilt University with a degree in chemical engineering. Lipscomb University's Fields Engineering Center is named in honor of he and his wife, Margaret, due to their generosity to the university. Some of his fondest memories are of working on the school yearbook, the Mizpah, and participating on the student council, the track team and in school plays.

SHIRLEY GRIGGS HOROWITZ ('65)
Nashville, Tennessee

"Know and believe that anything is possible."

Horowitz and her husband, David, have owned and operated their interior design company, Davishire Interiors, since 1985. Horowitz began attending Lipscomb Academy in 1961, and then attended Lipscomb University before earning degrees from the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, New York University and the Interior Design School in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. She was commissioned by former Tennessee Governor Phil Bredesen to oversee the renovation of the governor's mansion that was completed in 2010.

MICHAEL CURCIO ('01)
Dickson, Tennessee

"It was worth it, and I wouldn't trade it for anything."

Curcio was sworn in as a member of the Tennessee House of Representatives on Jan. 10, 2016. He currently serves as the House Judiciary Chairman for the Tennessee General Assembly and was named Legislator of the Year by the American Council of Engineering Companies. He began school as a fifth-grader at Lipscomb Academy in 1994. Among his fondest memories are acting in school plays and musicals such as South Pacific and Oklahoma, in which he had the lead role as Curly.

"As parents, we've benefited greatly from all the passion and care that Lipscomb Academy extends to our children. Giving to the Good Samaritan Fund is our opportunity to help the academy continually raise the bar on educational excellence for the benefit of our kids."

Lance and Carrie Brock, academy parents

The Good Samaritan Fund provides emergency assistance to academy families in temporary need when unforeseen circumstances such as health crisis, loss of job or other significant life change impacts their daily life and finances.
