Meet Our Founder

Mr Edward As CEO Founder

Mr Edward Jackson didn't start Apex Capital Partners from ambition. He started it from devastation.

At 32, Edward was living the dream. Third-generation real estate family. His grandfather built Lagos landmarks in the 1960s. His father expanded across West Africa in the '80s and '90s. Edward was the Harvard-educated heir apparent, overseeing $180 million in commercial properties across Nigeria, Ghana, and Gambia. Then 2019 happened.

The global financial crisis hit Africa like a tsunami. Oil prices collapsed. Foreign investment evaporated overnight. Tenants defaulted. Banks called loans. Within 11 months, the Okonkwo family empire—three generations of work—was gone. Lost: Every property. Every relationship with lenders. The family name's reputation. Remaining: Crushing debt, a shattered father who wouldn't speak to him, and a wife terrified for their future.

Most people would've walked away from real estate forever.

Edward couldn't. Real estate was in his blood

Our Service 01

You need a professional business location to attract serious B2B clients, but traditional commercial leases are designed for corporations—not growing businesses.

Typical Market Reality:

- 3-5 year lease commitments (what if you outgrow it in 18 months?)
- D500,000+ upfront costs (first month, last month, security, fit-out)
- Inflexible terms (can't downsize or expand easily)
- Premium locations priced out of reach

Our Service 02

An Exclusive Network of 1,200+ Vetted B2B Businesses Across Our Properties

When you lease with Apex, you don't just get space—you get access to a business ecosystem designed for collaboration and growth.
