

Revenue cycle optimization

Our process

BerryDunn's revenue cycle consultants engage with your healthcare organization to objectively review existing processes and develop actionable strategies for short- and long-term performance improvement.

We begin with a thorough analysis of current processes, systems, and staff, looking at the four key areas that impact your revenue. Once we have a holistic view of your operations, we then identify areas for improvement and the actions needed to see results.

Our experienced team looks holistically at the complete revenue cycle:

Where to start?

BerryDunn's data-driven assessment is a cost-effective, high-ROI approach to confirm that your processes are optimal or identify areas of financial opportunity. Our subject matter experts across the entire continuum of care will assess the people, processes, and technology in place and provide next steps on how to optimize your revenue cycle.

Patient access	Coding and documentation
- Optimize your patient access workflows - Develop proactive foundational front-end workflows - Enact interim leadership to strengthen workflows and patient culture - Create a patient-centered experience	- Connect clinical services to coding and billing to leverage a clinically driven revenue cycle - Design, implement, and oversee your customized CDI program - Identify compliance or charge code opportunities in your chargemaster - Develop defensible pricing models
Patient accounts	EHR systems
- Review your middle and back-end revenue cycle operations to help you optimize workflows - Assist with documentation review, denials management, work queue analysis, claim filing, and clearinghouse rejections - Improve clean claim rates, rescue denials, accelerate cash, and collect what you are owed	- Help implement or optimize your EHR to aid in revenue cycle workflows - Optimize clearinghouse/claim scrubbers, price estimators, eligibility and benefits, and contract management - Improve efficiency and effectiveness of your revenue cycle technology investments by aligning your staff and process with your EHR's best practices
