The opportunity and the challenge

The Rural Health Transformation Program represents an unprecedented investment in rural healthcare. But funding is only part of the equation. Organizations must also establish the financial controls, documentation practices, reporting processes, and compliance infrastructure needed to manage funds successfully and demonstrate results.

Why BerryDunn

- Deep rural healthcare experience.
- We understand rural hospital realities: staffing constraints, restricted funding, reimbursement complexity, and limited administrative capacity.
- Auditor-informed grant perspective.
- We know what documentation, cost support, and internal controls get reviewed after funds are spent—so we help you build with the end in mind.
- Strategy and financial experience.
- We connect funding strategy directly to financial structure—budgeting, accounting, reporting, and documentation working as one system.
- Practical tools, not just advice.
- Deliverables you can use on day one: readiness roadmaps, grant calendars, reporting templates, chart-of-account structures, monitoring files, and invoice review checklists.

Turnkey RHT grant management support

We start by understanding your role in your state's program—applicant, awardee, facilitating organization, or pass-through entity—and your current capacity. Then we build only what you need to be successful—for the full process or at any stage along the way.

1

Assess readiness

Evaluate governance, financial systems, reporting capabilities, documentation practices, and funding fit to identify gaps and prioritize next steps.

2

Pursue funding

Develop competitive applications, work plans, budgets, narratives, and funding strategies aligned with your state's RHT priorities.

3

Manage funding

Support financial tracking, reimbursement management, reporting, vendor oversight, and ongoing compliance activities.

4

Prepare for oversight

Maintain readiness for monitoring reviews, state reporting requirements, CMS oversight activities, and Single Audits.

5

Build the infrastructure

Establish policies, controls, documentation standards, and grant management processes that support long-term success.
