

WWE set for first ever Premium Live Event in Paris

WWE has announced that they will stage a Premium Live Event in Paris for the first time in the companies history with “Clash in Paris” set to emanate from Paris La Defense Arena on Sunday August 31st.

France hosted their first WWE PLE in May last year with Backlash taking place in Lyon and it was a roaring success that was headlined with a bout between AJ Styles and WWE Universal Champion Cody Rhodes.

WWE Legend and Chief Content Officer Paul “Triple H” Levesque said “Backlash France in Lyon last year broke arena records and decibel levels, demonstrating just how loud and passionate our WWE fans in France can be.”

That crowd in Lyon has been described as one of the most electric crowds for a WWE event having created memorable moments such as shaking the broadcast camera whilst affectionately chanting the lyrics to the French song “Il est vraiment phenomenal” towards AJ Styles.

Jey Uso had arguably one of his most visually stunning entrances of his career as the Lyon crowd “yeeted” wildly whilst using their camera flashlights to pay homage to the late Bray Wyatt.

The WWE last held an event in Paris in April of 2022 where the Accor Arena showcased talents such as Roman Reigns and Drew McIntyre in the main event.

WWE have made an attempt to increase its global reach in recent years as 2024 saw five PLE’s take place outside of North America with Europe being home to two of them (Backlash France and Bash in Berlin.)

Clash in Paris will be the third “Clash” event with the two previous “Clash at the Castle” events taking place in Cardiff Wales and Glasgow Scotland.

Paris La Defense Arena will also host the September 1st edition of Monday Night Raw. This will also be the first time that France has hosted a televised Raw.

No ticket information has been released thus far but fans can register their interest for future updates by using this link. <https://www.wwe.com/wweparis-presale>

For those who will not be attending the event, WWE Clash in Paris will be available to watch live on Netflix.
