

Joseph Jacklin

My name is Joseph Jacklin and I am a recent graduate from Leeds Beckett University with a 2:1 in journalism. I have covered sports, fashion and cultural stories and wrote my final project articles on how politicians are involved in the media. My best work can be found on my website which will be linked at the bottom. I have created news content for radio and TV broadcasting, have done work experience at the Yorkshire Post and a radio station based in Halifax. I am passionate about the media and communications industry and hope to be of use to you and your business.

Skills

- Content creation - Throughout my degree, I have gained skills and experience in finding stories and producing them using software such as Adobe Premier Pro and Audacity. I have also filmed with industry level cameras and can lead and work in teams to create bulletins.
- Writing - I am an adaptable writer, having written 200 word news pieces for a business magazine, 600 word sports articles for the Yorkshire Post, and 2000 word features for my final year project about politician involvement in the media.
- Keen researcher into current events - Since my late teens, I have had an interest in current events across a range of subjects. This carried over to my degree where I kept up to date with national and local news.
- Experience in the workplace – I have worked in retail since I was 18. I have worked in 3 stores of the same company, maintaining punctual and on task despite early starts, long weeks and short staffing. I am reliable, adaptable and able to direct others to ensure tasks are completed efficiently and properly.
