Miranda Mair, Manager of Carbon Advising at ENGIE Impact, leads a team of experts, helping Fortune 500 clients turn complex energy and emissions data into actionable climate strategies. With over a decade of experience in climate and sustainability, and a background in atmospheric science, Miranda specializes in building robust GHG inventories and guiding organizations through evolving standards, including PCAF and the GHG Protocol. She employs a practical, data-driven approach to helping clients bridge the gap between regulatory requirements and business value. Miranda champions transparency and continuous improvement in carbon accounting for the financial sector and beyond.
