The Birmingham Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce presents annual Real Estate Forecast

Birmingham, Mich. — The Birmingham Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce (BBCC) is pleased to announce its annual Real Estate Forecast Breakfast at The Village Club in Bloomfield Hills on Thursday, April 16, from 8-9:30 a.m. This year’s guest speaker, Todd Szymczak, Executive Vice President and Director of Investment Sales at Farbman Group, will focus on commercial real estate, while Dan Elsea, President of Brokerage Services at Real Estate One, will speak about residential.

The Real Estate Forecast is the final event of three — Economic, Government, and Real Estate — in the forecast series. Attendees will attain clarity on market data, trend projections, expert analysis, network with industry professionals, and anticipate the future of the profession. Real estate professionals, investors, finance and lending professionals, business and corporate leaders, and consumers and community leaders are encouraged to register.

“Our annual Real Estate Forecast is always one of the most popular programs we host all year,” said Chamber President Joe Bauman. “Real estate trends and property values are always top of mind in our communities, and we know this event will be a complete sell-out again this year. We are grateful to our presenters and our sponsors, and are looking forward to a tremendous conversation.”

Szymczak has been a member of the NAI Farbman Investment Sales Group since 2005, bringing more than 20 years of investment sales experience to the forecast. He advises owners and financial institutions on the sale of distressed and stabilized assets across multiple sectors, including multifamily, hospitality, industrial, office, and retail. As part of the NAI Global Investment Services Group, he connects properties with active buyers nationwide and provides insight into current capital trends.

Elsea has been with the Real Estate One Family of Companies since 1983 and has played a key role in the growth of Michigan’s largest real estate brokerage, operating 79 offices and serving communities statewide. Throughout his career, he has held leadership positions in commercial and residential real estate and has contributed extensively to the industry through service on local, state, and national boards, including the National Association of Realtors Executive Committee.

The program is sponsored by Amareaux Interior Design, Bank of Ann Arbor, Birmingham Shopping District, Citizens State Bank, Clark Hill, Fenner, Maelstrom & Dooling PLC, and Oswald Companies. With an anticipated sellout, those interested in attending are recommended to register as soon as possible. Registration and pricing information can be found on www.bbcc.com by navigating to the “Events” tab.

The Birmingham Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce remains dedicated to fostering local businesses, supporting professional growth, and strengthening the community. Through programs and events, the Chamber continues to connect with members and promote economic development and community engagement. For more information, visit www.bbcc.com.
