

Originally posted to Facebook in 2016, this is one of my favorite humor pieces inspired by my niece.

Elf on the Shelf: A Horror Story

by Kara Mathis

See this little angelic face? Don't be fooled, people. This is no angel. This is Lola, Age 3. There's currently an elf named Figby keeping a close watch at Lola's house. His job? To report to Santa.

And Lola knows this. Oh, Lola knows...

Saturday

Lola walks into the living room holding her brother's Nerf gun and eyes Figby who, for good reason, is perched high on a shelf. Lola matter-of-factly asks Mommy, "Can you cock this for me so I can shoot Figby down?"

REQUEST DENIED.

Today

Lola calmly tells Aunt Kara about Figby's unfortunate injury.

Lola: He was on the fan. And I turned the fan on.

Aunt Kara: Did you know he was on top of the fan, Lo?

Lola: (blinks twice) Yes.

Enough said. Not much is known about Lola, but one thing is for sure. Lola don't like no snitches.

Figby is currently recovering from his injuries. A Band-Aid has been applied.

#NobodySnitchesOnLo
#ElfOnTheShelfHorrorStory
#KidsAreTerrifying