Worthington Jewelers is where Columbus gets engaged. With more than 1,300 engagement and wedding styles—plus unlimited custom design options—the store offers unbeatable quality, selection and value in engagement, wedding, fashion and estate jewelry. What makes the family-owned jeweler stand out?

“We engage with customers to find jewelry that fits your unique style and budget,” say owners Bob and Theresa Capace. “Our friendly, non-commissioned consultants focus on what you want—not on what we carry. If you can dream it, our designers and goldsmiths can make it.”

This emphasis on engaging with customers has driven hundreds of positive online reviews. In fact, Worthington Jewelers is the only jeweler in Ohio to win The Knot Best of Weddings and Wedding Wire Couples Choice awards for each of the past five years. Columbus Monthly readers have voted the store as one of their top two favorite jewelers for the past five years.

Cut, Cut and Cut

The most important of the four Cs

BY CHERYL CLAYPOOLE

Realtors cite location, location and location as the three most important factors in property selection. For diamonds, the three most important factors are cut, cut and cut. The cut determines a diamond's sparkle, brilliance and fire.

Worthington Jewelers is proud to introduce our Ideal Collection of round brilliant, cushion and princess cut diamonds. Cut with unprecedented precision, our Ideal Collection diamonds are the closest gems come to perfection. They carry certifications from the Gemological Institute of America or the American Gem Society—the two most respected gemological laboratories.

THE KNEEL™ DIAMOND:

A Cut Above in Round Brilliant Diamonds

Three factors determine cut quality: proportions, polish and symmetry. Certified as an AGS Ideal Cut, each Kneel™ Diamond rates a perfect score on all three, making it one of the most perfectly cut diamonds on Earth. Only one in four GIA ideal cut diamonds qualifies as an AGS Ideal Cut.

THE FIRE CUSHION:

Cut for Maximum Brilliance

Graded as a GIA Cushion Brilliant (not modified brilliant), our Fire Cushion faces up at least 15 percent larger than a traditional cushion. Facets go directly from girdle to culet, eliminating extra belly and excess weight.

With excellent polish and symmetry, Fire Cushions display an incredible 95 percent light return. They're the most perfect alternative to a round diamond.

Fewer than one of every 1,000 cushions worldwide becomes GIA certified as Cushion Brilliant with Excellent polish and Excellent symmetry.

THE FIRE PRINCESS:

18 Percent More Light Return

Our Fire Princess diamonds consistently rival an Ideal Round in brilliance, with an outstanding 98 percent average light return. This compares to only 80 percent in standard princess cuts.

A higher crown and smaller table create greater fire and brilliance. Our Fire Princess diamonds also face up about 10 percent larger. A shallower depth means you're not paying for weight you can't see.

We invite you to eye-test our Ideal Collection Diamonds. Come discover why they deliver greater sparkle, brilliance and value per carat.

Not Your Father's Wedding Band

Break the mold with a ring that expresses your unique style.

BY CHERYL CLAYPOOLE

Back in Dad's day, men had little choice in wedding rings beyond the standard gold band. Today, there are almost as many options as there are men getting married. With a wealth of styles and materials to choose from, it's easy to find a ring that says "you"—down to your hobbies and interests.

Megatrend: Personalization

Today's couples often add one-of-a-kind details to their rings. Ideas include engraving your names, wedding date or a romantic message inside your ring. Alternatively, you can display your partner's fingerprint or even an electrocardiograph of their heartbeat on the exterior. Add family diamonds or a secret gemstone. The possibilities are endless.

New Metal on the Market

Dense and durable, Tantalum holds strong appeal for men who work with their hands. As the newest contemporary metal choice available, Tantalum offers several advantages:

- You can personalize your ring with different finishes, diamonds or gems.
- Jewelers can resize and restore the finish of rings made with this rare metal.

- The naturally dark gray finish will not tarnish.
- Tantalum is shatterproof, unlike tungsten.
- Rings are easy to remove in case of emergency.

A Rosy Future

Fashion-forward with a vintage vibe, rose gold has taken the wedding world by storm. This rosy metal complements almost any skin tone. It's a popular choice for couples who want to sport matching wedding bands customized to each partner's unique style.

Dark Stars

Black diamonds add boldness and character to precious and contemporary metal rings. The color symbolizes masculine qualities of strength and conviction.

Back to Nature

Men with a penchant for science or the outdoors can incorporate natural materials such as wood, meteorite and dinosaur bone into their rings. Hunters and nature lovers can choose from camouflage patterns and woody etched designs, too.

When you book with Brittany Hawkins Photography you get more than a photographer, you get creatives who are whole heartedly invested in YOU. We deliver the perfect balance of creativity and professionalism to capture every moment of your day.

Custom Design

Creating the rings of your dreams

BY CHERYL CLAYPOOLE

Yours is a one-of-a-kind love story. How you met; your first date; the million little milestones that merged two into one. Your engagement and wedding rings symbolize all that has come before and all that is yet to come.

Today, it's easier than ever to personalize your rings to represent your journey together. In fact, at least 40 percent of couples at Worthington Jewelers choose some level of customization for their engagement and wedding rings.

Options range from designing a custom ring from scratch to making minor changes to existing designs.

Spark Conversation with a Custom Design

Considering a custom or personalized ring? Talk to one of our designers today! You'll need about eight weeks from initial consultation through delivery of your heirloom-quality custom ring, and about four weeks to personalize an existing design.

Our designers and goldsmiths can transform your love story into one-of-a-kind rings to treasure forever. You control every step of the process, from initial sketch to computer-aided design or wax rendering to the sparkling, finished piece.

Although custom rings cost more than manufactured designs, they're more affordable than you might think. We often can create a unique ring for less than a big-name designer's me-too offering.

Add Unique Touches to Designer Styles

Personalization offers an affordable alternative to a custom design. It also usually takes less time. Here are a few ideas for making your designer rings uniquely you:

- Replace diamond accents with colored gemstones.
- Change the shape of the center diamond.
- Combine elements of two different ring styles.
- Add a peekaboo diamond or other gemstone inside your ring.

Remember that after the band stops playing, the flowers wilt and the honeymoon ends, you're left with photographs and your rings. Make sure they're made to last in a design you'll cherish for a lifetime.

Uniqueness defines beauty. Why fit in when you were born to stand out?

LASHBROOK®

Hand in Hand

The perfect ring and the perfect jeweler

BY CHERYL CLAYPOOLE

Figuring out how and where to buy an engagement ring can feel overwhelming! It's probably the most important—and most expensive—jewelry purchase you will ever make. Follow our tips to shop with confidence.

Set a Budget

Decide how much you feel comfortable spending. Ignore industry guidelines such as “three months’ salary.” A good jeweler can help you find a great ring within any budget. Beware of pressure to go above your budget or into debt. If you finance, look for interest-free offers.

Take Your Time

Buying a ring should not be like a timeshare presentation. Do not allow a jeweler to pressure you into making a lifetime decision in a matter of minutes or before you are ready.

Choose the Diamond, Then the Setting.

Many chain stores sell pre-mounted rings.

Shopping seems quick and convenient, but you can't see what the diamond looks on its own. It also limits your ring style selection and personalization options. Savvy shoppers buy the center gemstone first.

Beware of stores that sell rings by total diamond weight. A single, large diamond has a far greater value than smaller stones with the same combined carat weight. Ask for the weight of the largest diamond so you can make an apples-to-apples comparison.

Begin by learning about the Four C's: cut, color, clarity and carat weight, which determine a diamond's rarity and value.

Next, you'll need to settle on a diamond shape. More than half of all engagement rings sport a round brilliant diamond. Other popular shapes, called “fancy” in the jewelry industry, include cushion, princess, oval, pear, emerald, radiant, asscher and marquise.

Viewed alone, almost any diamond appears beautiful. Compare gems side by side, under magnification and under different lighting, to find the one that's most appealing to your eye.

To ensure the diamond matches the store's description, ask for a diamond grading certificate from an independent gemological laboratory. GIA and AGS are the most strict and consistent.

Choosing a Setting

To find the perfect setting for your diamond, first consider your partner's jewelry wardrobe. If they wear white or silver tones, you'll want a white gold or platinum setting. For warmer hues, select yellow or rose gold.

Next, consider style preferences. Do they wear subtle, petite jewelry or larger, more flamboyant styles? (If this isn't obvious, stalk your partner's social media feeds or ask their BFFs for help.)

Finally, consider your partner's profession and hobbies. People who lead active lifestyles or work with their hands may need a more protective ring setting. A ring with a large diamond or one that sits up high can make it difficult to wear gloves.

Matching Ring Style to Personality Type

Elegant and Understated – A prong-set, solitaire setting showcases the center diamond and allows the maximum return of light. For more bling, add diamonds to the shoulders of the band.

Bling Lovers – Halo settings surround the center gemstone with a circle of smaller diamonds. This creates a bigger, flashier look.

Fitness and Nature Buffs – Active lifestyles demand a protective diamond setting. Choose one that sits low on the finger. Bezel and gypsy settings, which surround the diamond with a metal band, are among the most protective.

Hopeless Romantic – Consider an antique or vintage style for a partner who loves romantic details.

Contemporary – Sculptural styles with nontraditional forms are perfect for the modern, fashion-forward partner.

Can't decide? Your jeweler should be happy to provide a temporary setting that allows you to pull off a surprise proposal. Then shop with your partner for the ring that fits them to a "T."

You Deserve a Personal Jeweler

Buying engagement and wedding rings involves more than a one-time transaction. Over time, your rings will require care and maintenance to keep them sparkling. Start right by choosing a personal jeweler who will get to know you and meet your needs over time.

Family-owned by Bob and Theresa Capace, Worthington Jewelers has become known for friendly, non-commissioned service and a relaxed shopping environment. Read our online reviews to discover why Worthington Jewelers is where Columbus gets engaged!

SEVEN QUESTIONS TO ASK WHEN SHOPPING

1 How many engagement and wedding rings do you have for me to choose from? The larger the selection, the more likely you are to find the perfect rings for you. The jeweler also should carry a wide range of center diamonds and other gems.

2 What are your custom design capabilities and fees? A reputable jeweler will provide sketches and produce a CAD or wax rendering for your approval before you make a down payment on the ring.

3 Are there extra charges for setting my diamond or sizing my ring? There should be no extra charge if you purchase both the diamond and setting from the store. The jeweler also should not charge for an initial ring resizing.

4 How long do repairs typically take, and do you send them out of state or overseas? To save time, inconvenience and worry, find a jeweler with an in-house repair shop. Average turnaround time should be two weeks or less.

5 Are there extra charges for an insurance appraisal and warranty? The answer should be no. A GIA Certified Appraiser performs appraisals at Worthington Jewelers. We also offer a lifetime, transferrable warranty through Preferred Jewelers International at no extra charge. Ask us for details.

6 Do you offer free cleaning and inspection of my jewelry? The answer should be yes—and missing an inspection should not void your warranty.

7 Can I trade in my diamond in the future? The answer should be yes—without extra conditions. You should receive credit for every penny you paid when you trade in your diamond, whether it's a month or 10 years from now.

Finishing Touches

Jewelry for the bride, bridesmaids and mothers of the bride and groom

BY CHERYL CLAYPOOLE

After you've found the right rings and the perfect gown or dress, it's time to accessorize!

Search for jewelry that balances your entire ensemble. Start by matching metal tones to your gown or dress. White metals complement whites and cool colors, while yellow and rose golds work best with warmer tones.

Next, consider jewelry that sets off the style of your dress. If you selected a simple but elegant dress à la Meghan Markle, add a few statement pieces. An intricately-embellished dress might call for more minimal choices—perhaps only statement earrings.

Match Your Necklace to Your Neckline

Consider a choker for high necklines. A longer pendant or necklace sets off low décolletage or strapless styles. Or, like Markle, you may forgo a necklace altogether. Lustrous pearls in choker or opera length add a classic touch to many dress styles.

On Trend: Eye-catching Earrings

Beyond accessorizing, statement earrings help to frame your face. Look for pretty drop or hoop styles. Diamond halos or pearl studs make classic statements.

For the Wedding Party

Many brides are leaving matchy-matchy wedding parties behind. Others prefer a more traditional, coordinated approach. Whichever you choose, make sure everyone tries on jewelry and their dresses together so you can see if you need to make any adjustments. Wedding-day jewelry is a traditional gift from the bride to bridesmaids.

Consider Fine and Fashion Jewelry

Some bridal parties splurge on pearls or precious metal jewelry set with diamonds and gems. Others break out family heirlooms.

We also carry affordable options that mimic the real thing. Sterling silver designs with rhodium or platinum plating and high-quality diamond simulants will stand the test of time, looking great on your big day and special occasions for years to come.

For luck, don't forget to incorporate something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue into your wedding-day ensemble.

THE COUPLES OF Worthington Jewelers

STORIES BY EMMA FRANKART HENTERLY

Lindsey & Michael Casher

Gracie—Lindsey and Michael Casher's dog—was intimately involved in the couple's big day. It started with the proposal itself, when Michael "went off to find some sticks" for Gracie to play with. When he and Gracie returned, the pup had some additions to her collar: a tag reading, "Marry my dad?" and a ring. "He knew I could never say no to her!" Lindsey says. Just over a year later, Gracie trotted down the aisle ahead of her momma. "Every last moment of the day was special," Lindsey says. "It was all such a whirlwind."

Brandi & Kyle Hojnowski

Family is a big deal for Brandi and Kyle Hojnowski, so of course their wedding featured their loved ones. Instead of flower girls, Brandi was preceded down the aisle by “flowergrams”—her grandmothers, who received an ovation—and she and Kyle were wed by her aunt. The family bonds were further strengthened by a secret, personal touch Brandi incorporated into the flowergrams’ baskets: dried rose petals from her grandfather’s funeral earlier that year. The best part of the day, though? “Having a fun, loving ceremony that felt absolutely perfect in every way,” Brandi says.

“We met how all modern-day romances seem to start: online,” says Jennifer Thomas. Both she and Henry had busy lives, so some high-tech help only seemed logical. “We had our first date at the North Market, and we both knew right away that we’d met someone special,” she adds. Both she and Henry say that the moment Jennifer came down the aisle was a major highlight of the day, as was exchanging letters pre-ceremony and reading them privately. But, says Jennifer, “I will never forget the joy and nerves I felt walking down the aisle.” Adds Henry, “I really enjoyed the first dance!”

Polly & Brent Carlson

Polly Carlson unknowingly set Brent up for her own proposal when she jokingly suggested that they carve "Brent and Polly forever" into a tree while at Brent's family's lakehouse in 2017. Much to her surprise, she turned around to see Brent on one knee, ring in hand. For their wedding, "creating a memorable ambiance at the reception for my guests was very important to me," Polly says. "All my vendors worked together to create a romantic, cozy and rustic, elegant feel ... walking into the reception, it was so gratifying to see my vision come to life!"

Jessie & Scott Gerlach

Jessie and Scott Gerlach faced some wedding-planning challenges, including Hurricane Irma damaging the Florida resort where they initially planned to marry. When a storm rolled through Columbus just before their outdoor ceremony, Jessie was crushed. She walked down the aisle inside her venue to “Somewhere Over the Rainbow” ... and was stunned to see a massive rainbow hanging over the city when she and Scott exited the venue post-ceremony. “The rainbow seemed to be a sign from the heavens that all our trials were over, and there was nothing but a sunny future ahead of us,” Jessie says.

Alexandria and Justin Searcy's vintage-rustic-glam ceremony was full of personal touches. It featured a gorgeous collage that Alexandria's mother made out of antique jewelry, among other lovely details. In fact, Alexandria says, "seeing how beautiful everything was" was one of her most memorable moments—along with realizing how happy she and Justin were. Also memorable for the bride? Seeing Justin start to cry as she walked down the aisle toward him. Justin's proposal was extremely personalized, too—he recreated their first date, after having met online.

It was so cute!” Equally cute were their parents—after the Wheelers’ first dance, both sets of parents danced to “Endless Love” by Lionel Richie and Diana Ross, which was the song for their first dances at their own weddings.
