

Camden Henry	Date: 5-30-18
TV News 530FLY
Package #1
TRT: 1:29
VIDEO	AUDIO
Anchor: V01: - TC 0:00 Golfer - TC 0:03 Insect on flower - TC 0:06 Ducks and pond - TC 0:14 Leon County sign - TC 0:16 Glen Pourciau SOT1: Glen Pourciau, LC Mosquito Ctrl - TC 0:23 VO2: - TC 0:39 Ducks - TC 0:40 Lake Ella - TC 0:43 Gardeners working - TC 0:44 People walking SOT2: Genel Jasmin, Teacher - TC 0:47 VO3: - TC 0:50 Bathhouse - TC 0:54 Public Works Center sign - TC 0:56 Bathhouse lake SU: Camden Henry Anchor:	Anchor Intro: Disease carrying mosquitoes has been a huge concern in Florida, prompting residents of Tallahassee to get resourceful with prevention. Camden Henry has more to the story... VO1: It's been three years since the epidemic of the mosquito-carried disease Zika made its impact in Florida. Its effects installed fear in the hearts of Floridians still living in the state, encouraging motivation to find a resolution. Now, there is a bigger concern, as more diseases such as the West Nile Virus and Eastern Equine Encephalitis start to appear on Florida's radar. Glen Pourciau from Leon County's Mosquito Control had plenty of information to share regarding the issue. Trt; 23sec SOT1: Glen Pourciau In: Buckets, tarps... Out: The Asian Tiger mosquito Trt; 15sec VO2: Unfortunately, individuals that spend time outside doing things such as working are more prone to get bit and infected. Trt; 8sec SOT2: Genel Jasmin In: I am a teacher

	Out: protecting him from mosquitoes. Trt; 3sec VO3: Attempts, such as the construction of bat houses, have already been made to halt, or at least slow down, the spreading of the diseases. But because they are nocturnal, more would have to be done during the daytime hours. Trt; 12sec In: As we make our transition... Out: STD Trt; 28sec Anchor Tag: