Customised keyholders act as multi-functional tools for businesses such as restaurants, hotels, or commercial outlets.

These practical items can protect key cards, serve as receipt holders, or even double up as credit card holders or gift cards. Apart from their efficiency, they offer a fantastic opportunity to engage with your consumers. It could be through advertising, QR codes to your web platform, or special promotional deals.

However, have you considered how to determine which paper stock most appropriately fits your keyholders?

This blog provides a guide to assist you in weighing up the options and choosing a material that matches your brand while satisfying your practical needs.

Silk 350gsm: A Balanced and Stylish Choice

Silk 350gsm is a material that blends style with practicality. It offers a polished, slightly glossy finish that enhances a touch of elegance. That feature makes it perfect for hotel keycard holders or any organisation demanding a modern look.

This material supports high-quality printing. Depending on whether you upload your personalised artwork or collaborate with our in-house team to develop a tailored design. Its well-matched combination of durability and refinement makes it a demanding choice for businesses looking for reliable and elegant cardholders.

Silk 400gsm: Premium Durability and Feel

Silk 400gsm is a more durable option for those searching for an advanced selection. Its thicker card stock provides superior durability and a high-quality tactile experience. Silk 400gsm is ideal for hotel keyholders or branded card sleeves designed to last longer and endure frequent handling.

This choice is perfect for businesses that focus on reliability and professionalism. Whether you run a high-end hotel or a high-class restaurant, this material makes sure that your keyholders make a lasting impression.

Uncoated Paper: Simple and Eco-Friendly

Uncoated keyholders are a simple type yet practical choice for companies looking for a natural aesthetic and vibe. Without any protective layer, these keyholders might lack the extra durability of coated stocks; however, they offer benefits in terms of recyclability and eco-friendliness.

This paper type is ideal for businesses focusing on sustainability and appealing to environmentally conscious consumers. It is also an excellent choice if you are searching for a simple design or opt for materials with a more natural texture.

Recycled Uncoated Paper: Sustainability at Its Best

Why not take sustainability a step further? Recycled uncoated paper is an ideal choice for organisations dedicated to environmental responsibility. Made from recycled materials, this paper provides the exact same natural look as standard uncoated paper. However, it aligns even more closely with eco-friendly actions.

These keyholders might not be as robust or polished as their coated counterparts, yet they can still create a bold statement regarding your brand's dedication to sustainability. This recycled uncoated paper is perfect for sustainability-focused hotels, restaurants, or other businesses. Recycled paper keyholders connect strongly with consumers who value eco-friendly initiatives.

Kraft Paper Keyholders

Want to combine eco-friendliness with a rustic aesthetic? Then, Kraft paper can be your business's go-to choice. Recycled and recyclable, kraft paper stands out for its earthy color appearance because of the absence of the bleaching process utilised in other paper stocks.

This material works perfectly for vintage-style cafes or restaurants, country bed-and-breakfasts, or businesses that focus on authenticity and elegance. Kraft paper keyholders offer more than aligning with your environmental goals. It additionally adds a unique character to your brand image.

Choosing the Right Option for Your Brand

When selecting the best paper stock for your keyholders, consider your brand's unique needs and identity. Silk options are an excellent choice for businesses aiming for luxury and durability. On the other hand, environmentally aware businesses might find recycled uncoated or kraft paper stocks more closely aligned with their priorities.

Additionally, your selection can also depend on your target market. For example, upgraded silk might be your best bet if your target group values a modern and refined aesthetic. As another option, if your target market values sustainability, recycled or uncoated options can help show your dedication to eco-friendly initiatives.

Why Keyholders Are a Marketing Must-Have

From receipt holders to customised card sleeves, there is a keyholder to satisfy every business's demands. Keyholders go beyond functionality.
