Arm/Delivery Mechanics: High leg kick into short arm action, short hook out front into on-line delivery. Fast, easy arm. Slight falloff to 1B side.

Physical Description: 5'11, 180 lb. medium-framed reliever with broad shoulders, a bit of a boxy torso. ML Comparison: _____

Category	Present	Future	Velocity	Comments
Fastball *	70	70	97	Velo sat 97 consistently with the fastball
FB Movement	50	55		Can give it ride or armside run, has life at the top of the zone and gets swing and miss. The hitters tell you it's doing something
Curve *
Slider *
Other *	40	45	90-92	There's a good shape in there with the cutter but he struggles to find it consistently and throw it for strikes. Backdoored ones get away from him.
Change
Command	35	40		Struggled with command in my look, hit a batter and a lot were in the dirt, definitely zone over spot command
Control	40	45		BB/9 sat slightly above 3 this season and has historically improved every year, could improve with quality reps
Baseball Instincts	50	50		Short look, but he is athletic and knows the game
Aggressiveness	50	50		Competes even when he faces in-game adversity

Summation: 5'11, 180 lb right-handed reliever with 2-pitch mix who will be a middle reliever in the major leagues. The fastball rides and gets swing and miss with good velocity, and there is a nice cutter shape in there somewhere. Needs to figure out how to throw it with consistency. Cutter plays nicely off the fb between the different shapes and velo separation. He has the stuff and strikes and had a great 2025 - K/9 jumped from 6 to 10 and BB/9 dropped from 5 to 3. Needs to work on command and shaping, still has time to work on it via quality reps. Has shown significant improvement and you can dream on a bit more.
