

Making Boston Age-Friendly for All

*Roger Tepe, of Boston, is working with city officials to eliminate the dangers that tree pits pose to some pedestrians.
Photo by Charlie Mahoney*

City's Action Plan Includes 75 Items

Dear John,

In the September AARP Bulletin, AARP volunteer and South Boston resident Roger Tepe explains how the city of Boston, part of the AARP Network of Age-Friendly Communities, is looking at simple yet effective solutions to help city residents safely "age in place."

Tepe served on the Age-Friendly Boston Action Planning Committee, which sought community input and subsequently developed an Action Plan of 75 items. The administration of Boston Mayor Marty Walsh plans to tackle these items over the next three years.

READ MORE

Join/Renew AARP

[AARP
Massachusetts](#)

Contact Us

Manage your Account

[Unsubscribe from AARP
Massachusetts Email](#)

[Unsubscribe from all
AARP Email](#)

AARP ©1995-2017. All rights reserved. | One Beacon Street #2301, Boston, Massachusetts
02108 | Privacy Policy