Fans hoping to see Drake hit the FedExForum this weekend are in for a disappointment, as the Grammy-winning rapper’s Memphis stop has been canceled.

Drake was scheduled to perform on Sunday, Aug. 6, at the FedExForum as part of his “Drake: It’s All A Blur Tour.”

FedExForum said the following statement was provided by the tour team: “Due to the magnitude of the production of the Drake concert, it is logistically impossible to bring the show as designed to the FedExForum on August 6th. Unfortunately, the show is cancelled. Refunds will be issued at point of purchase.”

On Monday, June 26, the Toronto native was honored with a key to Shelby County by Shelby County Commissioner Mickell Lowery during a trip to the Bluff City.

“Drake, we always say Memphis music touches the world,”

Lowery, who represents District 8, said to Drake at the time. “And like I told you, you got a lot of Memphis blood in you, and you’re definitely touching the world, “And so, we know you got Grammys, all these plaques, and all these awards, many more to come, probably Oscars, whatever. But not everybody has a key to the county, Shelby County.”
