It stays right here at the farmers' market.

Our flexible business lending programs make the most of what you have — whether that's commercial mortgages, lines of credit, or short, long-term, and customized loans. Like our specialty agricultural program, which offers loans for production, storage, and real estate loans. And we'll keep your money close, because right here is the community where we've been for over 100 years.

Where your money doesn't go far

A man drives across the countryside with the sun coming up. He passes by places he's gone by a hundred times before, which we see out the window. The camera takes time panning across the farms and fields, then school, stores, and other small establishments as we come to an intersection in a rural American town where one of our branches resides.

AVO: At Community Bank, your money doesn't go far. Sure, we offer things like no-fee checking, low-interest rate loans, even free financial advice to help make the most of what you have. But rest assured, your money stays right here — where you live, work, and raise your family. It's where we've been for more than 150 years, too. Right here in your community.
