

The Gear

Compiled by Taylor Thompson

Outdoors

For the climbing rookie

Petzl SIMBA, $59.95

Contain your little mountain goats with this adjustable full-body harness. Intended for youngsters ages 5-10, the Petzl SIMBA offers high tie-in points to keep those kiddos upright. Mountain Supply, 834 NW Colorado Ave, 541-388-0688.

For the tiny cyclist

Classic Strider, $99

Forget about training wheels; this little 6.7-pounder is paving the way for pedaling perfection! The concept? Balance, coordination and speed control—exactly what your pint-sized athletes need to gain confidence for those big mountain trails. Hub Cyclery, 1001 NW Wall, #102, 541-647-2614.

For the traveling family

GoPro HERO, $129.99
GoPro Junior Chesty, $29.99

Why? Because recording your own National Lampoon's Vacation doesn't get much better than strapping a miniature, waterproof/shockproof/vomit-proof camera to your child's chest. REI, 380 Powerhouse Dr., 541-385-0594.

For the artsy adventurer

Pakems Kids Extreme Bodie Edition, $45

Comfortable, lightweight, packable design... Water-resistant, ripstop fabric... Customizable appearance... This may just be the perfect footwear. I mean, what kid wouldn't want to scribble all over a brand-new pair of shoes right before jumping through a field full of mud puddles?

For the newbie parents

Boba 4G Carrier, $125

With this super-comfy, ultra-supportive, pocket-friendly infant carrier, you can now take your 7-pound newborn to the summit of South Sister. Hopscotch Kids, 1303 NW Galvelson Ave., 541-213-2245.

For the happy/nappy camper

KidCo PeaPod Plus, $99.99

Designed specifically for the mini-campers (ages 1-5), this lightweight travel tent comes fully equipped with a Microlite sleeping pad, adjustable window screens and UV protection. Yay, naptime! Baby Phases, 749 NE Greenwood Ave. #1, 541-389-3549.