About Me

Disciplined final year university student with a focused ambition to work within the media industry. Currently studying for a BA in English and Film and Television Studies at the University of Exeter, predicted to graduate with a first-class degree, I have developed the strength and versatility of my writing throughout both my studies and personal projects. Having written short stories, screenplays, and collaborated on a documentary, I am confident writing for a variety of forms and audiences. With further experience leading my university filmmaking society, XTV, and working part-time in the hospitality industry, I have a strong background collaborating with others. As Station Manager of XTV this year and Head of Events last year, I have honed skills in teamwork and communication, managing society operations and coordinating with other organisations.
